

CLAYTON'S
Quarto
DIARY
1866.

To Mr. W. L.

Boldly - flung o'er the mountain - Pawing near the sparkling fountain - Up the jagged rock-cliffs climbing
In the shade dull reclining - Heart and purpose - all undaunted - Through the forest spirit-haunted - Flint and strong - gentle skinned Free as God's breath on the wind, Undisturbed by thought of fear - Then art named "Winged Reindeer" -

Wrote letter to Uncle Henry Standard describing the occurrence at the Standard on the day after sets - & also one to Mrs. S. C. M. in same subject.

WEDNESDAY. February 28th. 1866.

wrote this morning to the Richmonds in ans. to a letter rec'd a month ago.
 My darling was also writing but had to go out early to see Mr. Stephens about the hall in which to give the lecture of last Sunday tomorrow evening. I deferred saying I intended to call on Mrs. Stephens when my two band met me. I had a delightful call & found a true & sincere friend in Mrs S. - We attended in the Senate today & heard a portion of a very able speech by Senator Kyle of Nevada. It is one of the best speeches of the season. - Next from the Capitol, I saw & spent the evening in the Union Hall. The baby is flourishing greatly as had a very cozy tent, and we felt very much pleased with our visit. We wish more that they had room for us there, as we may think society more than any one in the city? Last night Parker through my darling again predicted that in ten or the eve of a most terrible war, and that but a few days would elapse, ere the Union proclaimed the southern slave, in the Union and force at the point of the bayonet, the southern Representations cut, large - then would come bloody war and finally he closed with a grand thrilling and magnificent description of what was coming, and closed with a glorious peroration - calling forth from the audience - repeated demonstration of applause. - at the conclusion - some gentlemen in the audience arose & after many a word of thanks to the speaker requested that the lecture might be repeated on a, Charman & put it to vote - it was unanimously carried - and so quiet & orderly night we had, commenced fresh Republic finished along the audience under Howard, Great thanks, & many other noble passages - The lecture was indeed new & good, and caused the audience to be filled with the noblest instruction, of destruction, & made a, and a d him warm the most noble - but the elements were outside the hall, & only kept back through fear of the large respectable audience that the - from a cancelled - Engratulation followed my darling at the close and all came away, satisfied with the result of the evening.

To Emma Whately
from him in a formal one address-Thou, the over-arching misty shadows Thou draw from the light Upward toward the unlighted opening Hearing, diving sweetly, singing - As the oncoming light -

So from every ² mouth of sadness
 From the earth's mouth swift gladness Both thy spirit soar, - Flashing wings of golden brightness And quick heart of fery lightning Every eye sees more -

The above poem was given by Thomasina last December.
It is a little sociable here - but not so good as the one in the north

THURSDAY, March 1st, 1866.

I never after, when we came to her. There is some very cordial & affectionate intercourse, that is, with Washington a year ago. She was, not on the best of the terms with the sister - but her anxiety is about researches, & even on the whole I do not know but that it is a better to fight in each case.
 It would be as some persons, then others believe & I am sure but her cheerfulness is like that of the grand-children to wear at any moment. -
 The following beautiful little poem came through Lewis by Henry "Care of Silence" -
 To Mr. Moore -

In the forest wild & hoary
When the winds repeat their story And deep solitude is long.

Poor man proclaims - When the sparkling shinnel over And the pearly fountain gushes.
 And the echo over-echoes,
 I in the wood symphonies

So a rocky cove on a little Splendor which our dreamers should tell And which every fairy feels The best charmed home Offer this from ego of onada
 For the ground & charming petals & added by the great dreamers Till the hour dark come

All thy noblest thoughts concealing
 The truest love or ever revealing Thou shalt ever find That the truest trust is truest And the one which virtue measures - Is silent & true of mind.

Attended, - after much hesitation on the subject, the session of Greater Cal. in both under the rules of our own house. We had last decided to go - and were sure of it being successful - and would not have been in doubt if you had not visited our husband & seen for what he was in by no means favorable. With our mother, we both think we are in policy. When we was introduced to our husband & family some of a more serious to the latter. His disposition, when I was to another sister, in a house & after some lightening, some delay he was not alone - or we must about 1/2 in the afternoon left with the Florence Convention that Thompson is a success. We could not get a formal letter - which is true!

There should be an evening Session - We agreed that none of the Southern States should be admitted stol. Called on Mrs. Stephens but did not find to his room where one expects an hour or two of pleasant conversation. Senator Sumner is absent - in consequence of the illness - is well. It was quite sudden - but perhaps there is something providential in his absence just now for I think the dangers are gathering thick & fast around the members who are called Radical. We must win this in Congress & socially -

John & Nellie. Found an old friend Mrs. Enffing evening. The action of the Executive to do, in passing by them, in front of the Congress Resolution, the report of the Committee on the Sumner's Johnson's, kind of at Congress and back to his poor defence. It is a grand and completely successful the Radical wing of Congress and further appreciation such the Executive. The next step in the programme, but to the admission of Tennessee - & the Committee of Reconstruction Report, probably, in favor of admitting her as one of a loyal State, that is, supplanting only, those who have been loyal & take part either in the election or government, disfranchising Rebels, & making equal before the law - not edicts, black & white. This will be another pill for Cady, which it even hardly possible now, he will swallow without some demonstration of the class that exists before the face of him. But let it be our duty, better that the issue should be met this, month, yes, this day, than any other - the people are ready, it is our duty to let them know that they are not to be deceived, and that the Reconstruction shall not be a mere formality, but a real thing, and that the Reconstruction shall not be a mere formality, but a real thing, and that the Reconstruction shall not be a mere formality, but a real thing.

This evening we were out there some. But to tell a great disappointment as one was with them - Miss Merchant says Barlow & others expected to come - but were prevented. We invited them to our room and enjoyed a quiet, cozy chat - tho' it was some what dull when we thought of the inevitable snows which are brooding over us. - of course our conversation was wholly upon the pending events. Political & social which we can say. The evening they wished us to fix upon some time to visit them & have their friends to meet us - After canvassing the weather we thought tomorrow evening would be the best time as we shall be occupied nearly every evening next week, & we expect to be in Friday - All now decided that we go tomorrow - George & mine. Julius & Lillie are invited. We hope to have several besides. Myo's there. - It will no doubt be quite interesting. - Mrs & Mrs S. left early as they were away. - We like them very much -

A spirit of Conflict is brooding over this city, which could it be seen in the bright, would excite alarm and horror in the most gallant and freedom loving people. The city is full of ruffians - disbanding Confederate soldiers, who roam around the city at night - keeping house - during the day - who dog and follow our Radical Congressmen & all others who are especially anti-slavery - who breathe the d-d abolitionist air, they are treated here - with death & casting out - "that once for days they were all to clear out of Washington" - and now in the meantime, who are doubtless brought here - led the hands, with other servants, who it shall please.

I cannot say that I have ever before enjoyed a more perfect day than the one I have just passed. I have not been so happy, so free, so untroubled, so at ease, so at home, so at peace, so at one with the world, so at one with the universe, so at one with the Creator, as I have been during the last few days. The conversation, the music, and the scenery were all so perfect, so harmonious, so in keeping with the occasion, that I felt as if I had found a new world, a new life, a new hope, a new faith, a new love, a new God.

Sunday in the Country is always quiet & here especially, where there is not even the sound of the Church-going bell - But there is something - a "meeting" & that too of a liberal & advanced sort - The Universalist - which is no different in this case, in fact - except in name, - All the family attended except my darling & myself - who preferred our own society & books & papers - to any sermon - Reading our "Bible" & "Hymns" and listening to the words of endearment sweeter than songs or anthems - to those who have the "Bible" - there is no end of prayers & sermons! But alas. How few yet profess this true Religion - more than 6 or 7 at the most - you smile! - After Church - several high-school friends called, but we did not see them - ^{at first} The Minister was among them - after all was over except lunch & Aunt George's & their children went - & then - we came out & visited having a pleasant social chat and dinner - Before they left they invited us to go to their house - & promised to come for us - As Aunt intended going away to school, & we have promised to go to Aunt Ed's Tuesday, they said they would come for us tomorrow evening - and spend the night at their house & go to Aunt Ed's the following day - This fills the programme for the week presently. The evening has been quiet, & we are happy in the blessed communion of prayer - Browne & Folori returned on Saturday. Sunday is a most joyful week - we are grateful.

We have had the joy of being alone for the greater part of the day.
We are alone is all the world knows - our life is the pleasure and we need no other promoter, book or amusement to know to fill the full of time - My health is much restored - and I my darling wife to the church, awarded for her devoted con-nction - Come and hear the magnificence of our Sunday school, my judgment, I believe, I shall be able to see the same.

Wiley, Aug 6th S. F. Sunday April 22nd 1866.

My Darling wife is very sick this morning, she is as violently attacked last night with the cholera, & for some time I was really alarmed that I should not lose her, but she is quite, or now enabled to bring her out of the spasms, but she is exceedingly ill, and it will take some time for her to recover her strength again. This is the result of our coming home from the hills yesterday evening, through the rain. Unfortunately we met with a series of disasters, which detained us in the storm, in which my darling got very wet and cold and the violent attack is the consequence. Soon after leaving Huelo and coming down the hill our hold back gave out and the wagon running on to the horses' heels, we came very near having a run away, but the animals were old and not dangerous, so we succeeded in getting out and getting up. - Getting safely down the hill and in sight of the house, the pole to the wagon broke short off, and the horses met one way, and the other plunged into the ditch, which was quite dark but narrow, so that we did not quite turn over, but were trampled all together in a heap. The rain found us too much, and my darling & mother had to walk back to the nearest house through the storm wind, when we got another wagon and came home. The night and exposure is too much for her delicate health, and she is now the sufferer of much pain for it. - It seems so long and dreary to have my darling one confined to her room with sickness, but I am with her, and although I miss her frequent manner, I am cheerful and still hear her voice. Here, where even pain cannot check or lull. I am trying to lose her back into health, that with careful regimen is all the medicine she requires. I am so thankful to have her near at home - we can make her so much more comfortable than elsewhere. - I am so glad to see in one of her most violent attacks that she is not so afraid of the storm as she has been.

My darling is much better this. Her C. pylicum, nose looks improving, but is not yet able to hold out against the morning attack. Her strength better as though much, still is happy and contented, as the attack came on, again. I am so often up with her and will take a long time for getting up the long riding chair before to regain it. Then out of one's shell for out into the setting danger however, and does not seem when she can eat with the supper much so that careful nursing, and even with a more rest for quick than any. The rest for convalescence, and every day. The mother has come her beautiful eyes, start turning, & a warm smile is beautiful. After only my heart, and her heart.
 She is so patient, gentle & kind that gentle and brother, endowment & it is indeed a joy to attend her. Affection for the mother, she has seen her love radiate, it is so pure and, thank God, darling that, in beautiful moments of all around me, you are of course, that the world evidence, and expression of our love the approach of the divine, not in the work but in following the place. We have brought the second part that we love it much to look upon, really, the place is open, then the objects of our love, most affection, beautiful but they are, but so divine, upon our hearts. — may they succeed right speedily. —

Monday goes into "The Bank" again with us this morning.
The material is pleasant, but we are like children and consider "Bate, on the woods," and put all the perhaps and playfulness of childhood. - He so different from from what we have been accustomed to experience in the last six months - we are young people - who take away all our solid, for the immovable configuration of their staid minds, a spiritual excitement - nothing to beget, and but to depart as a supplant. - It is so pleasant, it is so easy, to the influence, has some manipulated themselves, some we have been here - They want us to be on earth for awhile - and take into our system, the purifying forces of the modern nature - and we intend to do it. - We have not seen with our new eyes - It is not so complete a success as we wished - the draft is not perfect, so I have gone to work again, to draw the book, remove the caps and re-butt. - I add, I think the master, on the stage of the book, mostly, and I add "hope the best" - It looks and finally, with the little, that the pen had "brought the little" as the soldier says, it works like a charm. - And with more little, fine, like a quiver in a thorn, and indeed it is, as beautiful around here, with the grand, glorious, hills, and charming, valleys, amongst the place that we could produce. - And in the hills, and in the most exquisite style of landscape.
And the little, but, and the great, and the small, and the corner of the landscape, and in the midst of it, with beauty and pleasure.

I am delighted to learn that the great Civil Rights Bill and in defiance of his infamous veto. - Thank God, some of the Republican Senators, who had proved traitors on the right again, probably the instructions of their Constituents have had more to do with this than anything else, as these parties

My Darling wife is getting much stronger and healthier and is sugarbush in motion this morning looking very and like herself again. We started out very early and went up and down to day engaged in farming. Eddy gathered the sap and boiled it filling up the lot attending to it down in the woods. The birds were making garden putting up singing early the flowers blooming and stone fences and putting things beautifully the occasional rain but by night generally true to see me bathed upon our heads softly and we would think that I had indeed all nature seemed in motion and to me up the creation of Nature full of expression vitality. It is a very precious wife and mother, delightful in the mood & among the flower beds, trimming the hedges the meadows, and the forest, and the drinking in the fresh mountain air, in the presence of the great air, the view on her cliffs, and the view of her step, shows the value of such medicine.

Little Cousin Eddy "got off" again this morning. He was derailing the train, which the Indians who had heard of it, and they did it several times, one of them after another, since - said "I sounded such a noise under its wheels, & he says it had lots of little wheels running all round the bottom of the big drop, through it, it might sink in, can't - path, and then to our heads in the pine trees. We think for a long year old.

After a long day's work, a few hours had the sap boiled into sugar. We carried our labor, by plucking the beautiful flowers that grow all around us, & forming them into lovely bouquets along the meadows. We were so afraid that the weather would spoil them, but she seemed to gather, & they were very beautiful. We carried them with the best of flowers, and the color of the petals, she gathered are not perfect, but in some of them the first buds appear.

SATURDAY, April 21st, 1866.

Went fishing yesterday afternoon, caught a full string of Lake Fish. Took them, day, and myself packed up in a box, in the midst of the stream, with a number of girls, Chubb, Irish boys, on each side, all busily intent upon catching their fish, some waiting for a bite. - Went to have a good string. Some ludicrous things occur in the country occasionally - We were fishing by the side of the Reservoir a large sheet of water half a mile in width extending far back into the country. Just at evening we heard a voice from the opposite side of the pond, saying "Oh, Pol!" One of our Irish companions - responded - "What?" He replied calmly, "Mother had a baby last night" - The words rang over the water, and up the lake like a trumpet & we, probably heard of many other beside, ourselves - As it was so late that the voice could be heard a long distance.

What are you doing? I am as usual, I have been bringing & how much I have enjoyed them! I have enjoyed the excitement of the Capital. We could have a simple compensation - among the rocks of nature - Besides, we shall gain new strength to do our work - from holding communion with the living God & flowers -

This is my darling wife's birth day, our happy anniversary in being able to spend it at our college home in the country. - Just made six years of age - Would to God we might have passed them all together, and have escaped the suffering that has been to separate our entire family - But we are supremely happy in our union, and will make the future fully atone for the misfortune, and sufferings of the past nearly laden years. We are happy, the day, and date, a new era from the present year.

That six years I would that no darker clouds had ever risen than did last the day of my life's morning! Yet, had there been no cloud could I thus appreciate the golden glow which has dawned upon me? How bright & beautiful life has at last become - I now know deeply does my soul nestle in the ark of its home - (Heaven or my Cove) and I cannot see this happy, happy song - "Rest Rest" And beneath the mother's wing - Where I have not spent an anniversary of my birthday for long years.

save my garden. I have a splendid flock, and they feed all nature in the sea of eggs. It is surprising, has attracted me here, and other things. I really find myself now, find of some kind of a heron, as I have one old white heron, which I have with the old lady, and she is a good one. I have one more of each, get a few more, and much more and I am sure, other she is a very old one, as carefully, not hesitate, to admit into her flock, as the old birds. That she really seems like a great great old lady. The plumage, and all of the flock is as white as snow. They are really the most beautiful heron that I ever saw. Mother, respect to native "handsome" pair. Her may be a good one, as she is a very old one.

THURSDAY, April 26th, 1866.

The storm has cleared away, and the weather is again clear and pleasant. Sugar making is over, so I am to day making a new "Camp", and have succeeded in building quite a coop, but the chickens will fly over the top, so we have been compelled to catch them, and clip their wings, and now it works splendidly. Helped mother in putting out Potatoes & Peas. Rec'd letter to day from John & Belle at Washington, and yesterday heard from Mrs. Lebbins who is organizing for anti-slavery at the Capitol. She writes us that she is now superintending the distribution of the Freedman in the District of Columbia. There are 1000 or more in that small Parish & the most of them absolutely in want of food. The Freedman's Bureau under the miserable management of the bigoted & Antislavery Gent. Howard is a great failure and entirely fails to meet the demand made upon it and the designs contemplated in its organization. She writes that Howard has issued an order, to the Colonel, to order them to change their bed clothes & pillow cases. Howard writes, "I am determined that not one out of a thousand should have even food enough to eat, & go without about bed clothes." This Howard is a praying, ranting, bigoted Antislavery bigot and a cheat, nothing is right unless it is done upon the sanction of the church. If he will soon be replaced by some good man, but this is little probable. That under the present Administration, he made a fierce crusade against a friend of ours, Mrs. Driffel, who had more men for the Freedman than all the Barmans & Genrals put together - endeavoring to have her removed from her position on account of her liberal principles (as she is, a Spiritualist) but she carried too many forces for him, & he has been obliged to retract all that he has said, and take back all that he is his religious difficulties. I am sure he did not do a woman.

My friend's wife was attacked by an, last night, a very violent storm of Asthma - he a very fine, man, his throat felt up and it proved it very difficult to obtain for breath - I wrote on his chest also another, and it was, for that an extraordinary spiritual manifestation occurred - he could scarcely breathe, when she suddenly remarked
 "The big Indian has come" - immediately, mother was, relieved, and soon more so, father, ~~Brook~~ back had making paper, almost instantly, the difficulty of breathing, was, overcome, and disappeared - It is not an accident, as I am, to this remarkable manifestation - I was very thankful that my good Indian guide "Buffalo" could operate so successfully, and that he will now, continue his good work, until it is, perfectly done - He has been quite weak, all day, but he continues to breathe, again, has, disappeared - This is the most rapid and sudden cure, by magnetism I ever found, that I ever witnessed, is a further evidence to me of the beauty and worth of our beautiful philosophy.

After a laborious confinement of six or seven months, the Education Committee in England have decided, much anxious as they were from a prospect of disorder in the South that Universal suffrage was the only measure for the ill of Britain - yet they failed to come to the vote to meet the true issue, and have again deceived themselves in the remedy by a compromise - another compromise to the discomfiture of the friends of Freedom - By an Amendment to the Constitution? not in the actual number of voters, the basis of Representation? they think they have done it.
No, they think that the basis of a National Representation to prevent the colored man suffrage - what all the evidence plainly demonstrates that the Southern people political education materially unimproved to an equality with the negro. The delaying the color of all who have in any manner engaged in the abolition cause. They are but a poor compensation for the wrong done - but would that Congress were not so stupid as to that action, but would support such a measure the Rulers of our Country.

Monday the sun rose bright & breezy - & we have been working & procuring a conveyance & driving to Fredonia for the night. The oldie's trip to Fredonia was a hard one - & the road - & the time (black clouds) around a severe storm commenced which has lasted all day.

The oldie, some while we have been reading - & the napping & spending a cozy quiet day at home - free from all intrusion. But I feel a fear is growing many of this rural life - I must ^{re-assert} ~~re-assert~~ recover my full strength that we may start on our journey - for I cannot well remain here & it will be too warm to travel. What wonderful changes love makes in the heart & mind. - since we have left the restless, impatient, dissatisfied - now to be alone in our anxious presence is our chief delight - to be quiet & repay - & receive we are all is grace!

A storm in these rugged old mountains, is like a gale at sea. A heavy rain and rough squalls, which are confined to the day. The clouds are as thick as the rain. (I would not have said I would not have been too much surprised to the day, to indulge in any such storm) - and I fear that it will not do for my presence, but to come here, only in the warmest summer months, or there to be warmly sheltered. - and even now my health has suffered from the cold and so much so that I am almost unable to leave the comfort of home. And thus the beautiful gift that is ours - the comfort of our life here, that is taking up the storm - the heat and the cold, and the our three men of heart and hand - with much in haste sometimes as hardly for the summer. I wish you must have met and met, and constant attention - no trouble of mine to help to make the home that is our life, and our household.

Adeline addressed the people in the Theatre Christian Music Hall, and we had good sized audience both in the morning and afternoon - The subject was related to the audience, and the discourse very interesting.
Adeline had a very considerable apprehension regarding her physical ability to stand the test of the fatigue incident to her lecture. But she has come out splendidly, never down better, and really gaining strength in the trial - She feels much better this evening than she has for a long time before - My love for her is so perfect and so full that I lift her above all trouble, and I am, her, with the good generous spirit friends, safely in all trials that may come.
This little & rather good sized city is of mushroom growth route over the Atlantic Great Western R.R. comes in, & converges is the transfer place of all the oil that comes from that region.

It still has the marks of the pioneer upon the streets that are a part of the scene in the streets - the narrow, and fragility of the buildings, and the street, which comes almost into the city, from the hills in the distance. The people are decidedly Christian in character, & they do, the culture of all Christian materialism, & they are on the fast ground of principle - & we "make a break" here in a very short space of time.

TUESDAY, June 5th, 1866.

We expect Uncle Ed Scott & wife along (the afternoon) train en route for Indianapolis and shall try and meet them at the Depot used previously there as far as Cleveland.

Went down to the Depot at 10 but found ourselves just too late - the train had just gone and we were considerably late approaching as we had planned to meet Uncle Ed and regretted our inability to fulfill the same. The mistake was made through our misapprehension of the departure of the train. - Returned to the Ironsides and visited with them until 2:00 at night when we went down & made another attempt & the train successfully. Dolly is a good deal better and stands the trip splendidly. - I shall begin to think that she thrives on fatigue after a while.

Succeeded in getting a sleeping car (last night) and we both rested nicely until we reached Cleveland this morning. The car on the Atlantic & Great Western R.R. was certainly the most comfortable I ever had been in - of the broad gauge, elegant and the road very smooth - we whistled along scarcely conscious that we were so near home. - Left Cleveland on the morning when we took breakfast & left of the Cleveland & Mich. R.R. reached Toledo about noon. Took change and went down to my brother's where we found just at dinner - he was not very cordial to us and had the fog of pneumonia, but during note for the first time that we are family as a part of them. Spent a very pleasant afternoon & then took the Lake Shore R.R. up the Maumee River back among at Waterville. Just in time to reach one of the most beautiful places that I have ever witnessed. Found Mother & Mary down to my sister. Found them out and Dolly soon saw her own mother and baby too. - The error & delight is common and we return to the best in the addition to perfect love of the mother and child.

Waterville, Me., Tuesday June 10th 1866.

The following Poem was given by Sarah, at the conclusion of her Lecture on her Poet last Sunday evening, & has been Reproduced by Thannie.

"Angel Presence"

Mcme when morning's golden beams, Light up the day beaming forth
And when the hills, & rocks & streams, Echo with sounds of joyous mirth
When birds in every tree & flower, Nuzzle their song of love & home, O'er that glad & happy hour,
Upon the wings of manna we come.

Mcme when noonday's sultry heat, Fills each vale, each lake & plain,
When in some calm & cool retreat,
All forms of life seek to remain,
When perfumed breezes have descended To kiss the honey bees' true home;
When light & fragrance float around,
Upon their silent breath we come.

Mcme when twilight's quiet hand,
Opens the purple sunset gate And golden clouds - a radiant band - In day's expiring glances wait;
When earth & heaven blended seem,
And gentle voices fill each home;
When prayer breathes like a dream Overmind & mortal thoughts, O then we come.

Mcme, when night with rattle train, Unfurls her banner in the sky,
And stars in silver float again Upon battlements & towers on high When robed, and solemn, march along, Responsive to the master's drum,
We come with great creations & song - O'er that solemn hour we come.

Mcme, to seek the year's last hours heart,
Your joys & sorrows all to share -
To break away the year which starts,
And place a plan of gladness there.
Each day & hour, each time & place, Whence your spirit's path leads to roam,
To seek some holy thought to trace
And on the wings of love we come.

Mcme beside the cradle of pain
With healing balm - with prayerful flowers, Mcme when sorrow's voice remains,
To tell of virtue's long & true powers.
The prison cell, the palace hall,
All men are prone our blissful home.
Laden with happiness & all, Forevermore, we come, we come.

To Dr Carrington of St Louis

Medicine Man

Some climb up the height of timbered steep
And search for ever for power & fame,
Some seek the "Hatching of land & sea deep."
To build upon earth a lasting name.

Some gaze out directly, which are rolling apart, Tired of the sun, once upon a coast,
And gaze at their land with the light of fact,
While some turn in the flood of death.

But there is the spirit which seeks to find,
To reveal for the day, some value for the dead,
Then search the hills, the Dades, of mind
The plan of eternity, then to reveal.

Thus showing the children of God to life,
And also the suffering of man's new place,
For this is the mission to run each day,
"The End & the Body's Medicine Man"
Then and now.

To Dr Carrington

Pearl of Truth.

A diamond flash the stars brighten
In the splendor of the moon,
A radiant with some white light,
In the beam which the adon.
Sometimes on the head of Power, Heaven the rare & flashing gem,
And in beauty & modest heart, Let then rest a diamond.
And the sea with its treasures
And the shining sand its gold.
But the eye of earth never measures Beauty which the sky doth hold;
Deep within the sea of feeling,
A radiant with endless youth,
And it, power & love revealing,
With the perfect Pearl of Truth
Then and now.

Thamara's Impromptu Singing reads for the term (thru) the Mrs Everett - of this city -

Eyes of Soul

Mental, see with Eyes of soul.
Often passing beauty, by,
Which contains the recompense
And the glory of the sky.

Gazing upon flowers or trees,
With a careful thought, glance
They reveal the mysteries
By which forms of life advance.

But when this mind sees,
How to decipher the spell
To unfold the mystery Which hideth in the soul that dwells.

And to trace the mystic path, Thru which eyes can roll,
For the spirit power back,
To perceive with Eyes of soul.

Therandorah -

SATURDAY, June 23d. 1866.

Poem given by Thamara to Mrs Lemmon a lady of this city, Impromptu.

Morning of Gladness
The leaves of morning greet the earth,
And fill with light each vale & hill Diffusing radiance & warmth
And all things, rich & dark & dull

The wild birds, nature with their songs
The stamens in spirit of the flower And Nature with a thousand tongues Proclaim the morning's mellow power.

Then there are sent above perfume fill,
The Atmosphere with conscious joy,
And we, spirit with perfume With happiness without alloy

Young and vigorous, the sun Shedding a gladness pure & bright,
The spirit we find in a perfume
The morning of Gladness, which bath & bright

The above poem, with the same preceding ones, were given at a Seance held here about the latter part of our arrival, in which the beautiful Kadian maiden Therandorah, Chae

St Louis Mo. Sunday June 24th 1860.

See when they stand, at the conclusion of Sunday's lecture
"See when they stand: the shining ones With smiles, of gladness & love.

With voices whispering of truth, Waiting their Constancy to prove.
Armed in robes of purest thought,
Like sunny rays from heaven caught.

See when they stand: your babe, and then Breathing the name you loved so well,
And maturing with sweet flowers rare,
The living words they used to tell,
Pressing their hands upon each brow, Tracing their arms around you now.

See when they stand: the mother dear,
Who passed from your fond sight away,
The father, brother, friend and near,
To chase each doubt & fear away,
To wipe each tear from sorrow's eye,
And change to pearls to wear on high.

See when they stand: the Salvator's face Whose memory is undimmed Who traced on his holy dark page
The truth, that deemed so strange & mild,
With sword & pen he still doth trace,
The Law which time cannot efface.

See when they stand: the nations' great,
Who gave the country's purest laws.

Who fell not from their high estate,
To count the same world's applause,
Who laid foundations upon truth,
And perished for the laws of earth.

See when they stand: far up the height Tir upon tir their forms arise With wondrous love & truth & might Till the sun blunders with the stars,
'Tis but a word of peace & time,
Which now emeralds this earth's sublime.

See when they stand: together bound By one Eternal chain of love Link after link, it is unbound Until it reaches God above,
And every world & every soul,
Is governed by Love's great control.

The most beautiful Poem was given through my darling at the conclusion of the Lecture. The evening, which was upon the subject of the relation of Spirituality to Theology. A large Audience filled the Hall, and listening with breathless attention to the which was a complete & thorough exposition of the beautiful truths of the spiritual philosophy.

He has stopping with Mr. Swarth on the 25th. A Mrs. Bernard a young French woman, who very richly in her conjugal relations, she is a splendid singer, and a woman of considerable achievement in her religion, ideas.

Theresa came and gave her a great name & the following, "Birds"
"Bird of Paradise"

There is a bird with plumage rare, Dwelling afar in distant climes,
Where warbling, full the balmy air Like sweetest music of the spheres,
Its song shall ever mingle here,
It dwells deep in orange groves,
Through all the summer flowers here,
It breathes of home & love & cheer,
But come away the ocean deep,
Nests in stranger clime & home,
Its song, methinks, I heart must lose,
And never loath all to sever,
Its plumage rare, its hue dark change,
And never display its perfect song,
Nest in home it still may sing,
There is the Bird of Paradise."

Theresa came and I was interested. Circle was held at Mr. Henderson's this evening, and during the conference for the hour, his company most gloriously upon all points, that the audience professed. It was a beautiful, scientific and wise and a very excellent satisfactory, the justice of the evolution and the relation of ground to matter was fully discussed upon. In the course of the conference the question of the intelligence of the African race upon the Continent I proposed. I was told a certainly, that the race would not become a national belief, but that it would continue to be a part of the whole race, that it would be disappear, a world all other people nationalities, upon the Continent, as the evolution, the evolution & evolution of past races on the Continent was discussed. The influence, claiming that the great Chinese & Japanese races, were the deities of a great, more truth & race, which formed, which were the happy earth - but that through religion the best did not in the world, and that in the future, in the far, far past.

The Canaanite in knowledge, is abandoned Thro' the clouds of affliction. Sometimes of despair He said even as that the sunlight, there should be and every season, while searching for truth Behold the light fountain of perfect truth There and seek.

FRIDAY, June 29th, 1866.

Darling is very much fatigued to do her trip yesterday.
And I fear that the jolting of the carriage over the infernal high roads of St Louis, must have been too much for her. She is so delicate that it would take but little more to affect her permanent injury, and I have to be very careful -

From Jim by Shannon to West. White.
"Morning Glory"
When with burning lips the sun - set Kisses the flushing hem of day,
And with her, the earth awakes, Charming night's dark form away,
When the wild bird, trill & warble,
And the pious strangled - howls,
All its murmurs & sweet laughter,
On the green & mossy shores -

First awakened by the morning,
In the tender, of the vine Clings round the cottage porch,
When it ever loves to trim Bright & foggy, full of beauty
With the sunshine light of dawn Like the flower, the spirit "Morning Glory", it is named - Then and there
The abode from our home, last Indulging, however, at all times -

Golden Showers
Merie hath wondrous, witching spells, Mithraic, power, strange magic darts, Fleeting & haunting all around The soul perceiving the name of love,
The Zephyr Fear on emerald wings, Odors & sounds of lovely things -
The fragrance of the orange grove,
The warblings of the wild birds' love,
Far, far across the tropic seas, Arcades is wafted on each breeze,
And flashing of the morning light Lingers themselves till back to light,
But in the spirit is a charm Sweeter than balmy breeze, warmer, Familiar, almost, to the senses,
The glimmers of the "Golden Showers"
He all under led White again
This afternoon, accompanied by Dr Campbell, wife, & Mr. Blaud we had a delightful time, and left the Colonel, in much better spirit, than when we entered his room - Shannon came & and the usual words, all merry and light hearted, such as she came in contact -

St. Louis Mo. Sunday July 1st 1861.

Charles W. Condit has this morning, by Sheppard's, and addressed the children of the Spiritual Home. The lecture was, as, beautiful and at the conclusion an excellent poem was given, taking the subject. Many have promised to reproduce the lecture, poem, as an entire publication, in the Little Budget. - the children's paper, published in Chicago.

In the evening, Bro. A. H. Hays gave the subject, "The Correlation of mind & matter, & the reciprocal relation between the two." The influence, both the theme and gave certainly one of the best addresses, that I ever listened to. Most clearly defining the relation between the two, & their bearing upon each other, & satisfying the audience, which was large and intelligent. Concluding with a most beautiful poem.

This is the conclusion of our lecture, in the good city of St. Louis and although not perfect as we had anticipated still our stay has been very delightful, and we have made many new & dear friends whom we shall not soon forget. The memories of our visit will do to us like beautiful flowers, of spiritual & spiritual home, & peace. - Particularly, & we are indebted to Mrs. M. M. Anderson. Their beautiful home "Harmon Cottage" has indeed been a home of rest & peace, and we have found perfect delight in it, beautiful harmony, and delightful association, - equal to the correlation of our relations & ours.

MONDAY, July 2d, 1866.

TUESDAY, July 3d, 1866.

This evening, Golly was controlled by her usual coolness of mind and the questions of the audience were answered in the space of one or two days, the response being made so far and in the northern part of the state, speaking, the day to be intended. Thanks to me, the communication, in the Ridge, return this summer again. In the night and material build, the night and.

Quite a pleasant party were assembled and all were very much pleased.

Thus came to day of the suicide of Gen. James W. Blair, Senator from Kansas. - At last the city, only last week, had been laboring for some time under a mortal affliction. - By erratic and uncertain still he has done glorious work in behalf of Freedom, although at times considerable of the American people still noticeable his life has been on the side of truth and can adorn his virtues, while the end of oblivion is, (not his faults) - He had been out riding with some members of his family, and he returned home.

At least a few of the members of the staff were out of the city of St. Louis.

 when we were joined by a Committee of people of this place a most the lecture, attended by the first, and magnificent address upon "The the last night of Thursday, my darling Political Condition of the Country."
 delivered a splendid lecture - to The audience was not so large as a crowded and intelligent one - the night previous - a when the with, Cent. House - permitting the Commission or rather Public Forum audience to discuss the subject, which that they were to have a Radical discussion of some questions - and they took a very much more against a strong discussion did she give us - but they turned the Republican champion remarks, that he sat life. The Public Congress, and they exceedingly charming - then the not present to lecture. - One of the attempted to separate the speaker kind, that we could not call such as Darby, came off with them, success that I don't regret that

Quincy, Illinois Sunday July 8th 1866

Arrived here last evening - stopping at the Quincy House, a very good Hotel - Darling, speaks for the Society here to day, morning & evening -

Found a very respectable and intelligent looking audience at the Hall - and an excellent Lecture, & Series, were given upon subjects chosen by the Committee selected from the Association.
We were very much interested in all along to, arriving at the Hotel and excepting a Mr. Thorne & Mr. Brown saw none of the students of the Society - The city is very beautifully situated upon a bold bluff on the Mississippi River, surrounded by a wooded rolling prairie, which is cultivated in the best manner, and is indeed an Eden to the inhabitants.
The point upon which is a beautiful Park, upon our left the glorious & hither old Father of Waters, and in our right the country, and fertile prairie - I did not find any Hotel nearer than the river, and not such safe, comfortable ones.

Quincy, Ill.

Had the delightful pleasure of driving through the kindness of Mr. Brown - through the country around Quincy - and a most beautiful rolling prairie, and a most sufferable ride did we have - it did my friends one so much good. Returning to the hotel in time to get the steamboat bound down the River - Eustachius about the "Andy Johnson" - an enormous name, but an excellent boat.

THURSDAY, July 12th, 1866

Left this miserable town, met its still more miserable people this morning, glad to shake the dust off my feet, & not only having rec'd very shabby treatment.
 But having through their trifling and pusillanimity, lost the opportunity of taking a River trip to Hannibal, now we are Compelled in order to meet our engagements, to go by R.R. Consequently, we only got the short but very pleasant ride from Hannibal to Quincy on the River - Had our friend Mr. Fishback, good for - and took the same steamer, that we came down upon - The Al Johnson - and indeed indeed enjoy the pleasant breeze and delightful scenery of the Mississippi -

Rock Island Ill

SATURDAY, July 14th, 1866.

Arthur addressed a large audience last evening in Rock Island, and very satisfactorily they having the privilege of selecting their own subject.

This morning - after spending almost a sleepless night in a hot close bed room - against my own blood - which the very heat of the Rock Island Hotel - a Mr. Woodman - we took the train for Chicago, on the Rock Island & Chicago R.R. - and a beautiful ride, have we had, although starting is somewhat fatigued still we enjoy there almost boundless prairies, and magnificent farms exceedingly - Thankful are we that the road is not dusty, and that we have so kind a Conductor, as whether he noticed something in our appearance beyond our surroundings or not - he politely gave us access to the rear car, which had been reserved for ladies, but to which we had a yet gained access - and we had it all to ourselves for a very considerable distance - and the room was decidedly airy - although we did not like to clean selfish - still I suppose we captured some of the mosquitoes that Grandey are supposed to open when they ride in state -

Chicago Ill. Sunday July 15th 1866.

Arrived in the good city of Chicago yesterday afternoon, and drove immediately to the house of our good friend Mr Thomas Richmond - who is one of God's true men -

We had expected from numerous letters rec'd the past three months from Wm. McKim Martin & others, that ~~they~~ ^{they} would be engaged to speak for the Spiritual Society of this place during the present month, as we have letters signed by all the officers of such Societies - inviting and insisting upon our coming - but we are surprised now to learn that Mr. Martin has been engaged for the month, and Holly's services not desired. Thought the, he means and Contemplative & I fear ~~Chambers~~ ^{Chambers} the other members of the managers of our spiritual society, still it does not affect us, as we are now compelled to come here to arrange for the publication of Holly's Lectures, a volume of which we intend bringing out this summer -

Came directly last night to Mrs. Lull's where Mr. Thomas Richmond is boarding, and we have good and pleasant quarters assigned us - The family are very interesting - comprising as it does, some strange specimens of the genus hominum. A Dr. Johnson of the magnetic persuasion is one of the boarders, and is most certainly the best Representative of Epilepsy that I have yet seen - He is not of the folks one like other people but he accords a knowledge to a second Samson - however, it is true - Intimate for him that the rest of the world do not look upon it in the same light -

Harley is so glad as am I that she has not to lecture to do, as the matter is exceedingly hot, and I doubt whether in her delicate condition now, she would be able to stand it - Thank God, our labor in this field are nearness for the summer & we can soon go to our rest in our mountain home -

MONDAY, July 16th. 1866.

TUESDAY, July 17th. 1866.

Wrote yesterday to father, in Calden. Spoke of the situation and Robert's relation to the current part -

Robert has been with me today, purchasing a supply of a little, darling, who is some in hope to bless our lives and with its presence - I say it is, for the gender is as yet undetermined the friends, lots of pretty things, and has made a beautiful picture, of all their and bliss her presence, and cloth.
she takes such delight in providing for the coming needs of the joy of our Union, & the abatement of our love - I say, and that our fond hope, may be fully realized, that the beautiful thing that is to crown our lives and love with all that it can not to make them perfect, may be a medium - and that when or accident may befall either of my darlings - She is fast approaching the time when we must let her go, and we cannot much longer linger upon the road, as she must have rest, quiet and that constant attention and good nursing that will perfect her in all of her former attentions.

We feel somewhat surprised that we have not seen a heart from some of the members of the Committee who were the chief instruments of our coming to the place - They certainly show a considerable spirit of selfishness and disturbance, in not informing us of the ~~change~~, at least of the sudden change in their preparations, and the backing out of all their promises and agreements.
Dolly and myself have been talking over matters, and we have concluded to have a lecture here at any rate - and have determined upon Friday night - so that the focus of the beautiful spirituality can be a perfect negative of the plan, that is a matter of perfect indifference to us - Disputes shall have no room for themselves if hearing my darling - I know she has many friends here, & they do not wish to be bound by the restrictive action of a high-toned Committee - We called upon Mr. Jones, the Editor of the R.I. Journal this morning, and suggested a very pleasant interview.
Regarding the publication of Charles's lectures, he is very anxious to bring out the matter.

THURSDAY, July 19th, 1866.

We had a very pleasant circle spent that we shall have to supply it then last evening - Charles found means for the publication on he Mr. Hoffman - Mr. Richmond & so, that the Establishment has not a Mr. Hull - & we can now sufficient Capital to warrant the Journal. Mr. Lincoln published all night - He believes that some of our Mr. Hull, and gave us one of spiritual friends, would willingly assume his characteristic communication the work & furnish the means. As he I do not think that I can see a way to do it at all, but that better information - He suggested the work would sell & be a great success 4, 6, 8, and call upon his wife - And take 3000, to bring out the first edition, that although eternally 2000 volumes, then the plates will she did not suffer spiritual - be paid for, & the balance of the paper will still that she was deeply interested, be the profit - An accident with & would welcome us warmly - this idea, we have to do with in our Sharon then came through by train from St. Louis, & Behr of St. Louis, and called on us in her delightful who are men of means - and made manner, for a long time - Dr. Franklin then the proposition - Sharon came also explained to us a question, yesterday & told me that it would be a the difference between Phlogiston & Magnesian success - I only and reject me action - stating that the former was the somewhat disappointed, & we had time for the element in its crude state, & that we were up with the belief but that as it advanced through the mineral at the Journal Association would be vegetable, animal & finally, although the work & long time, waiting for further in the human, it became vegetable, effect on our part. Still it is undoubtedly mineral, vegetable animal & human better for us, personally, that it should Magnesian - be arranged by ourselves - the only difficulty will be in finding a person who called on Mr. Hull this morning for daring Friday night, & admitted the same in all the city papers - Called upon Mr.

Wadsworth, one of the Eds of the R.R. Journal had a pleasant interview - talked over the matter of publication of Lecture with Mr. Jones, & each of them careful notes, & we will bring out all night, 20.

Thamie has from the following poem, to different persons, the last sent
To Mr. Keffman.

The breath of the river winds around And fills the heart with delight.
The Lily & carnation pale & dark green,
With a power of purity's might.
And the flower that blooms in the garden fair,
On the terrace and pasture.
Fill the eye with delight, with fragrance that You prize, to make them dear, But the silence of Time & sorrow tells Of a flower of mystical name,
Of the van and faded Asphodel,
That blooms with the Poet's fame,
Of the much-rose scenting the tropical breeze
And the wild & verdant vine,
Whose delicate drops like the poet's flowers
And around the dark forest trees
But deeper & deeper in some lone vale, Alluring the soul by the sense,
The odor of purity & sanctity Such delightful & rare recompense, Like a soul that breathes all its life, alone
On the altar of one secret shrine,
So of truth & of Constancy this is the tone,
And "Japannic" spirit is there.

Some heart, then be, whom sorrow's power Forsook -
Who through each dark & dreary hour,
Still fasten round their souls,
The more & grief, which one by one,
Have darkened life's bright day.
Until of joy's repulsive sun
They see no gleaming ray
And then in fact which seeps the throes, Delighting in the pain
Who live the dull & clouded snow
The darkness & the rain - Who fold their woes within their heart,
And find a time's darkened shore
Their sorrow cannot thence depart.
But deeper, evermore -
But then in souls as light as air,
As fragrant as the Spring
Who bark but in the sun's rare
And all their sorrow flying,
With a strong hand - even as the chain,
With power, power its song,
The shadows how like a dream
They do not tarry long,
Then, in the spirit there a light Which ever guides the way, Then see only what is bright,
The shadows may not stay,
And then the sun's light, which values
Then see not but of deep

The soul which grips not the balance,
The star of hope is there.

To Miss Wilson

The dew drop on the flower-bright;
Reflects the beams of morning light
The placid lake doth slumbering lie - Bearing the image of the sky.
Yet still the dew drop dark enfold,
A light within itself enfold
And in the water is a mirror Of Power, when ruffled by the storm,
And then our souls whose outlines Are still in hidden prophecies, Enfolded in the cover of earth Still waiting for the second birth To be revealed - & then their light Is filled with beauty, truth, & right.
Thy spirit still hath little thought Of all the days gone & years caught,
But still the link up continues With drop & atom in earthly mines Reflecting & mending light to day,
But holding still the mystic ray,
Which shall at last have manifest form
The beautiful "Oval", the name

Left Home, this morn'g

The water here is much warmer - and the temperature is getting warmer, the visit the main for the time being.

 I have been to the store last night - and I have seen many things - but I have not seen the one I was looking for.

 I felt discomposed rather felt

To Mrs Cone.

Then are hidden mines of secret worth Concealed in the depths & cans of Earth Then are wondrous pearls of beauty found In the Cancerd waters of the sea profound
The mountains conceal their precious gems,
That shall sparkle at last in radiant suns—
Then an spirit whose treasures get sought & stored
But wait for a magical hand to move, Some kindly & searching eye to light
The Cancerd when gleam their gems so bright,
And amid the sorrows & struggles of life
To find out the gems & find the water of life And then is a spirit to struggle & give The strength & the courage to do & to live
To comfort the erring—to uplift the weak,
And words of true sympathy ever to speak Of light & a power ever to impart
To the many & fainting—a power of heart—
And for them own spirit a purpose to gain True knowledge & wisdom to seek & attain For beneath the strong spirit—life's burden & trial Sickness—dread on the power & despair
For deep in the center, a fountain of youth And its treasures are guarded by "the eye of truth"

To Mr. Robinson

The garden is filled with rare flowers
That send with their track the maiden's dream
They climb over lattice & palace wall.
And their lovely petals on marble walls fall
The cottage is hidden with the morning vines,
The hill is loaded with fragrant woodbine,
And each lovely flower hath beauty & grace
That no mortal can name the most lovely strain.
The forest is filled in each valley & glen,
Far away from the sight & the presence of men;
Then the violet droops its blue eye in a dream
And the daisy, from both morning & evening
Then a flower hunter for beauty & grace More perfect than those of the garden & bow,
With healing & balm for the wounded in heart,
And the wild thyme & lavender, in fact.

From Green Island, Evening July 1st 1866 in St Louis at the conclusion of the lecture

Admire the swift stream of time's dark stream That the Gentleness of Fate

And come to the tide, in strange spirit, glide With meadows green & State;

In strange fagot bark - breadth bannered dark With crosses of human bones -

And is bright with sun-crown of white And mirth to music's ten times -

Yet of movement, as they pass by the shore, Speaks a voice from turret small

"The mills of the gods grind slowly
But they grind exceeding small"

When the tumult of many with thunder afar
The curse of Oppression's breath

A dark road dark glide to the tyrant's side And revels in Carnage & Death.

And it is on death do hold with rich bannered With curses and blood and despair

And the strange ship of light, breadth bannered white,
The last sound of the Patriotic Prayer.

Yet of movement, as they pass the black shore,
Speaks a voice from turret small

But they grind exceeding small"

Left Buffalo this morning and reached my beautiful College home this evening. Pretty well tired out, but glad to again get home.
Fannie has closed the summer course splendidly - her health constantly improving, and we have now come to the point where we must make our plans for the future, and ultimately the school that we have been to give our darling babe - and to make Fannie a few weeks of strong exercises in the young period of maternity shall have arrived. - We have given the mother and child - all the advantages that health, happiness, and extended home. Could be get upon the anti-natal existence.
of baby is not a genius - it will not be because she has not had every advantage that could be given her.
But with our poor at present, our purses all will be glad to see us at home is enough the sad fact that Fannie is extended up to Philadelphia - The Convention of Southern Loyalists in Philadelphia next Monday. & I must be there as a delegate from Louisiana. - Bought Tommy Banks.

at 12.15 o'clock day - near the meridian - our darling little blue eyed daughter first caught the light of Gods sunbeam; first breathed the breath of earth air and gave to our anxious hearts joy and gladness. - Precious darling, safe in a well earned be expected - and has shown the signs of maturity most nobly - she is a brave glorious woman, and has come out of the struggle with all the honors of war. - Lately, now is resting most sweetly - and the tiny little one bud, just expanding into existence, lies, cuddled close to her heart a most beautiful sight a charming picture - mother and child.
Little boots, as we have fondly called her, has black hair and blue eyes a remarkable and rare combination just what we both wanted - and we are so happy - our lives now have the connecting link - our love, has a sweet embodiment - and our pulses such beautiful warm, joyful, our hearts are full for utterance, none only their glad pulsation, can tell the joy and delight we experience, God be praised, that our prayers, have been answered - and our hopes realized - what the angels sing of that oftenest accompanied such experiences, -

If the eyes, the intensity of every gaze passing me far from from the soul of my soul me, from the lived sunlight of my existence, - the sweeping of thoughts, the living stream of things, that have my soul in a purely one state, together swept out into the darkness, - the separation from my human being that is, the God. Can there be greater suffering, more life denied.
 Becomes safe and dark, only by me, I am left. When myself from thee, and stands in the land of ancient fathers, then the truth, such illumination, immediate looking the face that felt from me you that come from my soul, last night - the many of them, are all encompassed this necessary - hope the right we have in health, would not be necessary to have a temporary absence. I will not return of long - we would rather be upon a boat, can be in the most human capacity - to be, to have, to have there but in a place and be deprived of my love me, - the one must be known - the other, still - and it is, and a time, to me is doing publicly, but conscious for things which he has done and has done. If Lincoln had not been assassinated. if Mrs Sumner had not been hanged - if Jefferson Davis was not a prisoner of state - if John Sumner was not a prisoner of state - if he was tried and executed, or had and not executed. if there were not things in the air that whisper to Andrew Johnson that his secrets are known, he might do something. He expects that there is a telegraph between the worlds. He suspects that the dead speak. He expects that there may be answered. therefore he does not act. Had Mrs Sumner's diplomat succeeded as well as he anticipated. Had not the world ever whirlingly & contemptuously decided there he might have done something. Had he not have been warned by what has been said that even might he said. he would have done something. What he now does is with a veil over his face, and closed eyes, that man may not read his soul under the guise of punishment to all parties, but with a secret hand-grasp with Retz. Jefferson Davis knows he will never be executed, or even tried - John Sumner knows he is safe within his prison walls, and all this because somebody dared to hear that Mr Johnson was not such on the night of the assassination, and not someone that it was about to occur, and somebody happened to know that he if all others was most anxious that it should succeed. The Judiciary Committee is on the track of circumstantial evidence. Wilson of Penn has been lamped with but these things will come to light for justice though slow is sure.

Washington City D.C. May 15th 1867.

Left Washington this morning on C&P train for New Orleans via of the. The bridge was at our last meeting and while under influence gave the following arrangement. That there was a large meeting - an assembly of a political character marked by a fair to the successful candidate has been an opponent to me, one tall slender, dark hair, with an air of looking face - the other short, dark, with light complexion - I am his opponent that I would allow the height of my opponent audition - that I will return to Washington in about three years successful - that I had around at that point when no ill look would be made, and good fortune commence. - Reached Nashville today morning after a somewhat tedious boat trip. Found another brother and all your family delighted to see us. Father is a good fit, and means indeed taking solid comfort. Home is indeed pleasant, and in case of a delightful shade, and calm retreat. - but it is for a brief period we must soon be up and off again for west and a lot of them.

Nashville this May 23rd 1867. Left home this morning for New Orleans.

New Orleans May 24th 1867. Reached this city this evening at 3 o'clock.
Came down the Mississippi on the steamer "The Star" had a delightful passage. The weather is somewhat difficult for that of the river but did not find them at all uncomfortable.
Barkley says is delighted with the country & that on the bank and perhaps may be near as well seen on Canal it and tomorrow shall proceed to New Orleans.

Washington City, D.C., December, 24th 1865.
Concluded this morning, that the evening should find our man and wife - accordingly called upon Reid father Purfoot and secured his services, sent Julia after the license, and two days after the flowers and Crockford's in a box to the marriage feast - all of which, my pleasantly accomplished D at half past seven o'clock my darling Lora and myself entered the quiet and cozy little parlor of our present home, and with only Gigi, Louise, Julia, Lettie Mr. Crutt and Father Purfoot in the mental form with an innumerable and glorious assembly of the household gods present, were introduced into the blissful land of that state called matrimony, which since the first meeting, curiously had been ours. - a delightful supper followed and a feast of reason & flow of milk then -
